METHODOLOGY

The methodology to be practiced shall be of mixed approach where it shall be a combination of doctrinal research and various forms of empirical methods that will help us to find evidentiary proofs for our findings. Keeping in mind the objectives of this research, the combination of methodologies will be the best practice to be curated. By keeping the foundation of the research with the help of doctrinal theories and the researcher will be pursuing with the various techniques to be practiced.

The researcher shall be making a cross-sectional based design consisting of various questions prepared for the opinion-oriented survey via google form which shall be shared through different modes and platforms for getting a reliable source of information from Law students, Lawyers, Advocates, Arbitrators, Mediators, Presiding Officers (P.O.), Recovery Officers (R.O.), Hon'ble Siting Judges and Retired Judges of Supreme Court, High Court and other tribunals and courts of law. The data for the research being taken shall be highly confidential and be stored and used only for research purpose and shall not be shared with third party for any concern or purpose.

The researcher shall also be professing various national and international survey-oriented research from various ODR platforms and other institutions working independently across the world.